ORSON L. BROADBENT INSISTS ON GOING TO THE FRONT

Orson L. Broadbent, Ogden draft registrant, evidently would rather face the powder and shrapnel of war than the tears of his relatives, for he advised the city board yesterday that he had determined to go, that he had told his relatives good-bye and couldn't disappoint them. Mr. Broadbent lives on the east Ogden bench, where he established a little home some time ago with his wife. He had been granted a deferred class from meritorious reasons and the board thought he was resigned to stay home. When Walter Richey, however, went to tell Broadbent that he did not have to leave, he met a cold reception.

"No siree," said Broadbent, "you can't kid me that way. I've made up my mind to go and I'm going. I've told all the folks good-bye and I want to go now and get it over with." So he was allowed to go.

Out of the sixteen men Ogden is to send to Camp Lewis next Sunday, there are five who have volunteered their service—literally "rarin' to go" as the boys say. The volunteers are David W. Mead, Frank Noordin, Sylvester Cook, Raymond S. Goodard and Clifford Greenwell. The five volunteers have been placed on the city board's honor roll by Chairman A. R. Heywood.

The list as finally revised and completed contains the following names: Leon Bartlett, captain; James Welch, lieutenant; David W. Mead, Anton Poulos, Joseph M. Bingham, Axel R. Peterson, Kenneth R. Knauss, R. D. Calhoun, Arthur Fronberg, Roy Lowe, Frank Noordin, Orson L. Broadbent, Sylvester Cook, Howard M. Allen, M. H. Adders, David W. Farrell, Raymond S. Goodard and Clifford Greenwell, D. D. Donaldson and Frank Faulkner will also go with the Ogden contingent although they are from an Idaho district.

ALHAMBRA TONIGHT

There is a splendid program at the Alhambra theater presenting three stars in a love story that is different. A girl in her teens marries an aged man, displaying the beauty and the beast. It keeps you in expectancy continually. James Cruze, one of Ogden's sons, Theodore Roberts and Louise Huff, three noted stars, are in the cast and the Lincoln pictures make up a most enjoyable film entertainment.—Advertisement.

RAILROAD CLOCKS ARE TO BE SET AHEAD ONE HOUR SUNDAY

The official order directing that all clocks and watches on the Oregon Short Line railroad be advanced one hour at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, March 31, to indicate 3 o'clock, was received yesterday at the local offices, the order having been sent out yesterday from the headquarters offices by H. V. Pratt, vice president and general manager of the road.

When the hour of 2 a. m. arrives next Sunday morning, the order automatically wipes one hour out of existence.

A check will be made to see that the new time is being adhered to strictly. Trains then on the road will continue to run as though an hour late and will make up time where circumstances will permit.

The new order will not necessitate the making of new timetables to conform to the new time. All that will be necessary will be for the train crews to be called an hour earlier on the first day of the new order. In cases where the new order will interfere with the sixteen-hour law concerning railway employees, some means will be found to get other crews to take the place of those affected, which will be very few.

It will be well for persons having appointments to be at certain places at a given hour to see that their train allows ample time. If a man were to go from Ogden to Cheyenne to attend a funeral at 10 o'clock on Sunday and departed from here Saturday evening he would be an hour late to attend the services in case the old schedule called for arrival at 10 o'clock at the destination.

REFERENCE BOOKS WANTED FOR CAMP

CAMP KEARNY, San Diego, Cal., March 27.—"I would like to be able to say," said J. H. Quire, librarian of the camp library here, reporting on library activities, "that the Bible is one of the books most often called for. But it is not. I attribute this to the distribution of testaments among the men by the Y. M. C. A." Reference books, Mr. Quire declared, are called for more frequently than fiction, and the so-called "red blooded" fiction is called for more often than the classics or near classics.

Of the reference books, volumes having to do with military tactics, strategy, regulations or problems are in demand at the Camp Kearny library. Literally there are dozens of copies of some of these listed in the library records and so much in demand that hardly a volume ever is on the shelf a day. Engineering text books, army publications, some new publications on howitzer and machine gun warfare, put out by the government; books on practical aeronautics, wire-telegraphy, and military topography are some of the reference and texts most in demand. Books on sex hygiene also are read by many soldiers.

Of the books on the war, a volume by an American who served in the French forces, somewhat autobiographical in nature, is the favorite. Mr. Quire said. The library's thirty-seven copies of this are in constant demand and a long list of applicants is awaiting an opportunity to read it.

As an instance of how well balanced the library is and how it is adapted particularly to the soldier's needs, Mr. Quire cited a call by an officer for a text dealing with the German military rifle, which the library had with it. Some attempts have been made, he said, to utilize the library for the spread of propaganda, particularly by some religious cults, but these efforts have been put down.

The library, Mr. Quire said, makes a specialty of providing any works needed by soldiers studying to obtain officers' commissions or even promotions to corporal or sergeant, and will go to any length to obtain these.

PURCHASE OF A LOCAL ICE PLANT

E. J. Ulrich of Colorado Springs has purchased the large ice plant of the James Coal & Ice company on Wall avenue, between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, according to information made public yesterday.

The deal was consummated through the Security State bank and the new owner will take possession immediately. He is experienced in the ice and cold storage business and will start the plant in operation at once. On account of the open winter, the ice crop in the intermountain region is very limited this year and a shortage is imminent. The operation of this plant will provide a certain supply for this city.

DR. A. E. WINSHIP IN A LECTURE BEFORE THE TEACHERS

Dr. A. E. Winship, editor of the New England Journal of Education, delivered a lecture yesterday afternoon in the Ogden high school auditorium. His subject was "Progress of Education." The audience consisted of all city school teachers, many from the county the Sacred Heart academy, the State Industrial school and the State School for the Deaf and Blind, the Weber Normal college and the Smithsonian business college.

Dr. Winship reviewed the history of education briefly and called particular attention to the strides which had been made during the past seven years, during which time many new ideas had been advanced, many theories worked out and a vast improvement made in nearly everything and notably in education. His address was of great interest to the assembly.

Dr. Winship is traveling from his home in Boston, Mass., across the country on a speaking tour. He went to Salt Lake from Ogden. He was received here by several prominent local educators, including Supt. Frank M. Driggs of the Deaf and Blind school, Supt. Dr. E. S. Hinchey of the State Industrial school, Supt. Henry C. Johnson of the Ogden City schools and Principal J. E. Beeson of the Ogden high school.

After the lecture, he was taken by automobile through Ogden Canyon and about the city and was later entertained at the Weber club.

EASTER DAWN TO BE CELEBRATED

Open Air Observance of Resurrection Morn at Riverside, to Be Beautiful Ceremony.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., March 25.—Easter dawn on Mt. Rubidoux, the scene of Riverside's open air observance of Resurrection morn, will see the flag of America given a prominent place in the observance of the day, as the men and women who direct the annual service plan patriotism only second to their faith.

"And this flag," said the late Bishop Conaty, of the Roman Catholic diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles, at the ceremony of the dedication of the cross that tops Mt. Rubidoux, "cannot persist unless it is accompanied by the spirit typified by the cross."

Flag Means Democracy. These words, spoken in 1909, had been repeated two years before by the unfurling of an American flag on the same spot, when Jacob A. Rilis, the founder of the outdoor observance, raised the colors where the cross now stands. This flag, he said, means democracy. "In a democracy," said Mr. Rilis, "the people have got to understand each other. If we cannot get together on a spiritual basis, on what basis can we unite?"

With the words of Bishop Conaty and of Mr. Rilis as their theme for this year's service, the people of Riverside have planned their ninth annual Easter congregation. The war, and its attendant disturbance of normal conditions, dismayed for a time some of those who have been active in the past. They said people wouldn't come, and if they did come, the time were not right for a religious observance. But the moving spirit of the occasion took a stand for the usual service. "We have got to hold fast to that which is right," he said, "and the war makes our service more necessary than it ever has been in peaceful years."

The program this year has not been announced in advance as is customary, because the stress of war work has made it hard to find those who could take part. Marcella Craft, soloist, who has appeared for several years, because Riverside is her home, and her people wanted her, is unable to attend this Easter. Many of the famous men, including the author, who have read Dr. Van Dyke's "God of the Open Air" in past years, are either in war service abroad, or busy serving the nation at home.

Stress Laid on Patriotism. Riverside people say, however, that the program will be, in the essentials, that of other years, with more stress laid on patriotism.

Last year, hours before dawn, automobiles and other vehicles deposited their passengers on the slopes of Mt. Rubidoux, and thousands came about from Riverside and other nearby places. When the sun rose over the hills it rayed with light masses of people, grouped on every available space, and covering the slopes to the furthest point to which even the sound of the choir might be expected to carry.

A cornet solo, "The Holy City," was given as the light increased, and then the people sang "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," an invocation and the Lord's Prayer, a solo by Marcella Craft, and then a responsive reading preceded a great chorus from Gounod's "Redemption." "God of the Open Air" was read, as it is annually, and another solo by Marcella Craft and a hymn by the people closed the program.

No Sectarianism Permitted. No hint of sectarianism, no hint of commercialism, and no hint of anything but a reverent community observance of an anniversary of Christendom, has ever crept in to the Mt. Rubidoux service. This is the ninth year of its existence, and each year, as its fame has spread, the attendance has grown, until now men from across the continent mingle with those who live within the shadow of the mountain. As its fame has spread, and its intent become better known, other towns of southern California have carried out similar observances, until the Mt. Rubidoux idea, as outlined by Jacob Rilis, and strengthened by great men of many churches and of no church at all, has, in the belief of those who plan and direct it all, become of significance in the religious life of the entire nation, if not of the whole Christian world.

ANOTHER BIG PICTURE AT ORPHEUM IN "DRAFT 258"

It's the talk of the town, the big feature pictures which are shown at the Orpheum theater every week and Manager Goss will not disappoint his patrons the coming week, for he has secured another great feature and one that will give everybody a thrill of patriotism. The picture is "Draft 258," featuring one of the greatest dramatic stars of the stage, Mabel Taliaferro.

"Draft 258" is a photo drama that will make America dearer to every one of its citizens. It is the story of a typical American family. Mary Alden, a shop-girl, tells her sweetheart she will marry him when he comes to her in a uniform, and he happily complies with her request. One of her brothers, Matthew, is a socialist, and German agents use him as their tool before he realizes their true motives. Mary is abducted by German agents and placed in an aeroplane factory which they are about to blow up. The climax is exciting in the extreme, and the production glows with patriotism and devotion to the nation.—Advertisement.

NORTH OGDEN NOTES

NORTH OGDEN, Utah, March 29.—The advent of spring in North Ogden finds many changes compared with a year ago when our population was practically in perfect fact, now broken up by the ravages of war calling to arms about one-tenth of our adult male citizenship, leaving an aching void here and there in our homes and besides there has been an unusual tendency to change for new localities. Thomas F. Berrett and family have changed to Tremont, Chas. W. Ellis to Riverdale, Solomon C. Shupe to Gooding, Idaho; Edward Berrett to Samaria, Idaho; Elzy H. Brown and Albert G. Ward to Ogden Valley, Hyrum Blaylock to Logan, Edmund Jones and family have moved from Rigby, Idaho, and William Bailey of Liberty, Ogden Valley, expects to make his home in North Ogden.

John A. Clark and family have our sincere sympathy in the entire loss by fire Tuesday night of their home and entire furnishings, as they were living in furnished apartments in Ogden, leaving their house furnishings at home untouched and the insurance allowed to lapse, makes the loss more serious.

Robert G. Montgomery has recently returned from a three months' visit in California cities, spending most of his time in Los Angeles, leaving his home in North Ogden December 8 and returning the present month.

The officers of the Primary association are zealously working to the end that loyal patronage be given them Friday evening in an entertainment for Red Cross benefit.

Samuel F. Berrett, an early-day resident of this place, but many years a resident of Ucon, Idaho, has been a visitor with us for a number of days.

Mrs. Zina Blaylock has just returned from a few days' visit with her husband, E. M. Blaylock, at Idaho Falls, who is located there, engaged in auditing work.

Walter B. Scoville of the Ogden stage high council was a visitor at our mid-week meeting and spoke to the departments in general assembly, delivering a special message for the president of the stake.

The priests of the ward will have their "inning" next Sunday, conducting the afternoon meeting and furnishing the entire program in music and oratory, including a talk from a member of the stake high council.

Charles W. Ellis having recently moved to the Riverdale ward of the Weber stake, has made the selection of a ward chorister necessary and names are already being considered for that position.

The public has been asked to fall in line with the daylight saving proposition and set all clocks ahead in accordance with general instructions.

Cement walks have just been completed in our church grounds, adding greatly to the general appearance and convenience about the church buildings.

MOTHERS

If you are interested in special amusement for children, bring them to the Alhambra Saturday afternoon and let them enjoy a program composed of Ogden children. A most beautiful fairy tale; something they will enjoy.—Advertisement.

Mooney Asserts Innocence.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—"I am am confident that the special mediation commission has presented conclusive evidence to President Wilson of my innocence and his action in urging upon Governor Stephens that I be pardoned is a natural result," said Thomas J. Mooney today, in his cell at the county jail where he has been confined since his arrest July 27, 1916.

"The president wishes my guilt or innocence established by the court, and I feel that the president wants me pardoned on this particular charge in order that I may be given a just trial on one of the other murder charges pending against me."

Eight other murder charges stand against Mooney in connection with the bomb explosion.

BASEBALL PROMOTERS MEET.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Promoters of the new International Baseball league met here today to perfect plans and select a desirability circuit from the number of applicants for admission. Organization will be formally completed, it is expected, next Wednesday.
